8.1 Neither party shall be in breach of this Agreement nor liable for any delay in performing, or failure to perform, any of its obligations (except an obligation to pay) under this Agreement if such delay or failure result from events, circumstances or causes beyond its reasonable control ("force majeure"). In such circumstances the affected party shall be entitled to a reasonable extension of the time for performing such obligations. The reasonableness of that extension is to be assessed not only in the context of the Project but also in the context of the parties' other commitments. If the period of force majeure continues for six months, the party not affected may terminate this Agreement by giving 30 days' written notice to the affected party (provided the force majeure does not end during such notice period).

8.2 The Supplier will endeavour to comply with any timetable or dates which the Supplier has given to the Customer for the performance of the Services and the supply of the Deliverables, but these are estimates only, and the Supplier will not be liable for any delay or failure to supply or perform in accordance with that timetable or those dates.

9. Representatives

9.1 Both parties will each appoint a person who will act as its respective representative for the purposes of this Agreement. That representative will be authorised to take decisions on behalf of the appointor and will be responsible for providing any information which may be required by the other party to perform its obligations under this Agreement.

- 11.5 The Customer acknowledges that the above exclusions and limitations on the Supplier's liability have been drawn to the Customer's attention and that the Supplier is willing to undertake greater liability provided they are able to obtain insurance to cover fully our potential liabilities to the Customer, and the Customer pays for that insurance.

This Clause 11 sets out the Supplier's entire liability in respect of any actual or alleged infringement of Intellectual Property Rights by the Deliverables.

12. Waiver of Remedies

No forbearance or delay by either party in enforcing its rights will prejudice or restrict those rights. No waiver of any right will operate as a waiver of any subsequent breach.

17. Headings

The headings to these Conditions are for ease of reference only, and do not affect the interpretation or construction of this Agreement.

18. Law and Dispute Resolution

18.1 This Agreement is governed by, and is to be construed in accordance with, the laws of England and Wales. Subject to Clauses 17.2 and 17.3 below, the English Courts will have exclusive jurisdiction to deal with any dispute that arises in connection with this Agreement.

18.2 If any such dispute does arise, the parties will, within 10 days after receipt of a written request from either party, meet in an effort to resolve the dispute without recourse to legal proceedings, and will appoint, on the request of either party, a neutral advisor. If considered appropriate, either party may, at any stage, seek assistance from CEDR (Centre for Effective Dispute Resolution) to appoint such an advisor and to provide guidance on a suitable procedure.

Unless concluded with a written legally binding agreement, all negotiations connected with the dispute will be conducted in confidence and without prejudice to either party's rights in any future proceedings.

If the parties reach agreement on the resolution of the dispute, that agreement will be recorded in writing and, once it has been signed by their respective duly authorised representatives, it will be binding on the parties.

If the parties fail to reach agreement within 90 days after either party registered that a neutral advisor be appointed, the dispute may be referred by either party to the English Courts unless, within that period, the parties agree to refer the matter to arbitration before an arbitrator whose method of appointment is agreed between them.

- 18.3 Nothing in this Agreement will restrict or prevent either of the parties from applying to any court (whether in England or elsewhere) for injunctive relief.
- 18.4 If any provision of this Agreement is, for any reason, held to be unenforceable, illegal or invalid, it will not affect any other provisions; they will continue in full force and effect. This Agreement is then to be construed as if that unenforceable, illegal or invalid provision had never been contained in this Agreement. The parties will use reasonable endeavours to agree valid and enforceable terms to replace those unenforceable, illegal or invalid provisions in order to meet, so far as is possible, their original intentions.

19. Partnership and Staff

- 19.1 Nothing in this Agreement evidences or implies any partnership or joint venture between the parties or the relationship between them of principal and agent.
- 19.2 Although we will endeavour to maintain the continuity of our personnel involved in providing the Services, we reserve the right to determine which of our employees and consultants performs the Services.
- 19.3 Neither party may, either during the period when we are providing the Services, or for six months afterwards, without first obtaining the other's written consent:
- 19.3.1 solicit, or endeavour to entice away from, or discourage from being employed or engaged by the other, anyone who is or has been involved in the Project; or
- 19.3.2 employ, engage or endeavour to employ or engage anyone who is employed or engaged by the other and is or has been involved in the Project.

This Agreement will be legally binding on the Supplier and the Customer on the date on which the Order for the relevant Services is signed by both parties.
